Walk Japan, the pioneer of off-the-beaten-track tours of Japan, has announced the launch of the new Izu Geo Trail, an in-depth tour into a fascinating and diverse corner of Japan.

This tour explores the Izu Peninsula, one of the most unique geological areas on Earth. Although only 150km (94 miles) from the giant metropolis of Tokyo, Izu, with its distinctly different landscape and climate akin to a subtropical island, is a world away from the capital.

In the peninsula's mountainous and forested hinterland, myriad natural springs provide a continuous supply of pure water that cascades over numerous waterfalls, through gorges and valleys, to the coast. Izu is a fish-lovers' paradise and on this tour it's possible to enjoy some of the freshest available, from spider crab, squid and lobster to sea bream and many more varieties. All the accommodation on this six-night tour incorporate onsen, thermal hot spring baths.
